It takes courage to strike out into new fields on a mere conviction that one can do a certain thing, or is fitted for it. It takes courage to get out of one's beaten track and launch into untried paths, no matter how tempting they might be. It takes courage to start out even when one hears the call when there is a possibility of having to turn back and be laughed at, or to receive stinging criticism.

Since this is the first yearbook ever published by NWCC, it is appropriate that it be dedicated to our president, Dr. John Wolfe.
There is a level of pleasure born of the excitement of learning which characterizes the final years of study in a professional school in the health sciences which is seldom duplicated again. The pleasure flows from several sources: wonder at the complexity and mechanisms of control of the human organism and at the phenomenal capabilities of the human body for repair and adaptation and awe at the fast moving front of knowledge in the field of health.

It flows too from the anticipation of participating actively in the relief of human suffering and the restoration of health. It is appropriate that this yearbook honor those men and women who have earned the privilege to serve their fellow man.

What's everybody looking for?

I found my basophil in 10 seconds!!
Amidst the academic endeavors, NWCC students, particularly the freshman, took time out to demonstrate their athletic talents in the St. Thomas Intramural program.
The touch football team ended the season with a respectable 9-4 record in rugged league play. Highlight of the season was a runnerup finish in the invitational Homecoming IM tournament. NWCC got to the finals, but lost 13-6 under the lights.
The volleyball team did less well and finished with a 1-5 record. The basketball team, bedecked in the fancy (1930's) NWCC uniforms, provided some good action but a disappointing season record of 1-7.

Wayne Eck won the 158 lb. division in the IM wrestling tournament. The softball team had a 1-1 record in early season play.

CLEAN-UP DAY, 1973
The Alpha chapter of Chi Omega Phi fraternity has been in existence at NWCC for twenty-five years. The main objective of the fraternity is to promote and assist in the general education and scientific research in the chiropractic field, and to foster the ethical practice of Chiropractic.

This year the active enrollment of Chi Omega Phi soared to 24 enthusiastic members, a number greatly exceeding any in the recent past. The size and diversity of this group allows its members the opportunity to participate in many activities within and outside of the school. Among these are the sponsoring of guest speakers and social events at NWCC.

Outside the school the brothers of Chi Omega Phi are involved in volunteer work with the needy of our community. This is only a small part that our fraternity is playing to stimulate interest and to promote the qualities of this wonderful profession to which we have all dedicated our lives.

MOVING INTO ACTION...
WITH DOUBTS OF THE OUTCOME
The 1972-1973 school year was a time of innovation and renovation. The students banded together to try and better their education, the Student Council assumed new responsibility, and a student newspaper was again attempted after at least a 10 year absence. All in all it was a pretty good year.

It's hard for me to be objective about the newspaper since I have rather maternal feelings about it, but I had high hopes. The title of the newspaper was chosen after much deliberation to symbolize the discontent that pervaded the atmosphere at the time the paper was organized. It perhaps wasn't the best choice but it has lived up to its name. The IRRITATED NERVE pointed fingers at many areas of criticism around NWCC and tried to give solutions to the various problems. I had hoped that by giving everyone a vehicle in which to voice their opinions, problems could be brought out and solved. The few people who took advantage of the paper generally wrote excellent articles that were well received by the student body.

I was very pleased with the number of people who gave of their time to help out with the paper. Bill Atkinson took care of all the business details, Joe Manthei took most of the pictures for the paper, and both wrote articles, too. Tom Jessiman, Bernd Busch, Byron Danelius, and Tom Asbel regularly wrote articles for the IRRITATED NERVE. Buff Caprow, Dave Holte, Wayne Eck, Bob Lee, Reed Nelson, Al McClinton, and Craig Nelson also wrote articles for the paper. Curt Simonson, Steve Rosenbluth, and Staffan Jarnefors helped with the photography. Ken Burck, Jim Toftness, and Boyd Beley helped with the layout of the paper, and Rosanne Burck and Cyndi Rohrs deserve a special thanks for helping type the articles for the paper.

It's hard for me to believe that so many helped out with the IRRITATED NERVE but it adds up to the astonishing fact that 20% of the student body at some time worked on the newspaper!! Congratulations—you did a super job!!!

THE WORLD NEEDS CHIROPRACTORS—NEEDS THEM ON EVERY HAND.
FOR THOSE IN PAIN AND ANGUISH,
THIS IS A WEARY LAND.

THEN LET US STRIVE TO BE MASTERS
IN THIS ART THAT WE EMPLOY;
TO MAKE THE WHOLE WORLD BETTER,
AND MORE FULL OF PEACE AND JOY.

Looking back and comparing the education given by NWCC now and four years ago, I can honestly say that our education has made great strides forward. NWCC has adopted the St. Thomas program, and has made numerous changes in its own educational curriculum, making it much more organized, thorough, and versatile. Like anything else, it still has plenty of room for improvement and I know NWCC is heading in the right direction and will soon get the recognition that it and chiropractic deserves. I am proud to say, "I graduated from Northwestern College of Chiropractic."

THIS WAS THE YEAR THAT WAS

This was the year that chiropractic came under Medicare.

This was the year that the Congress of State Presidents got the brass of both the ACA and ICA to appear at the same podium on the same day—without any brick-throwing.

AND this was the year the students at NWCC became a Student Body.

Oh, I know there were still some faces that were never seen at a school party, and still an occasional student's car in the patient parking area. But there were some significant events in '72-'73: as a body, the students expressed their concern for the quality of their professional education; matter-of-fact communication between faculty and students was established; the publication of a student newspaper was resumed; and a YEARBOOK IS BEING PUBLISHED!! NWCC appears to have acquired some of the attributes of an honest-to-goodness Alma Mater, an experience, an involvement of mind and heart to be looked back upon and reflected upon—instead of just a passing phase to be forgotten.

YES, This Was the YEAR That Was— a beginning or a renewal?—of something good, something positive. Now, next year...

Peterson and Asbel look like they're ready to sleep after a stimulating lecture.

OH-OH, get the B.E. Award ready!
His first name is Justin and his middle name is Time!

Gee, I aced it!
Let's see... I want 12 laterals, 9 AP's, 7 lumbosacralis, 6 obliques, & a Davis series... Oh, by the way, did he bring his checkbook?

Uh... Uh... Uh, they still haven't painted that spot up there....

What about your hair, Charlie???

What daya mean; only a NICKEL for the Gingko tree???

It's right here, Richie baby.

Now watch! If you know this, you'll know more than the other fella.
